EXTERNAL SYSTEM GRADUATION CEREMONY 2010

Dear Graduate,

Congratulations on successfully completing your study programme, through which you have demonstrated a sustained commitment to learning.

I am delighted to confirm that your achievement entitles you to a place at the forthcoming External System Graduation Ceremony at the Barbican Centre, London, on Monday 15 March 2010 at 2.30pm, which will be attended by graduates from all over the world. As a graduate your ticket to attend is free of charge, and you can also purchase up to three guest tickets at £45.00 each. You may apply for more than three tickets, but please note that any additional tickets will be subject to availability.

Tickets to the Ceremony will enable you and each of your guests to be admitted to a celebratory Reception afterwards, and will also provide an opportunity for you to meet with some of the University's key academics and, of course, your fellow graduates.

Should you decide to make the journey to London for this very special event, we have attached Guidance Notes to help you with your plans. Please complete the enclosed ticket application form and return to the External System Ceremonies Office by Friday 15 January 2010.

We look forward to seeing you at the Barbican in March, and hope that you will consider returning to the University of London External System either as a student or as an active member of the Alumni Association.

Finally, may I take this opportunity to wish you all the best for your future career and endeavours.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Jonathan Kydd
Dean, University of London External System
