

GOLDEN GATE BRIDGING

January Update

Golden Gate Bridging is only 3 months away! Please look below for some important event information updates.

Announcing Girl Scouts USA and National Park Service Partnership!

As part of Girl Scouts' effort to increase outdoor opportunities for girls Girl Scouts USA will be renewing their partnership with the National Park Service. We are thrilled that this agreement will begin with a special ceremony at Golden Gate Bridging. We will welcome Jonathan Jarvis, National Park Service Director and Kathy Hopinkah Hannan, GSUSA Board of Directors President to San Francisco to participate in Golden Gate Bridging! You won't want to miss this unique and historic experience, so spread the word and invite other bridging Juniors to attend GGB this year and be a part of it.

Girl-Adult Ratio Change

We have assessed our current registration levels and have determined that this year we will lift the girl-adult ratio restrictions for 2015. While we encourage you to use Golden Gate Bridging as a great opportunity for your girls to step into the world of Older Girl Scouting and independence by attending with only her troop leader, we understand that this is a milestone that many parents would like to be a part of. Beginning Thursday, February 5, 2015 at 10a.m. you may register additional adults to attend this event with your troop.
